

Andres Raieste - Senior Vice President and Global Head of Public Sector Industry – Nortal

Andres Raieste is Senior Vice President and Global Head of Public Sector Industry at Nortal, a global consulting and technology company.

He leads strategy, innovation and growth for government clients, aligning policy, technology and organizational transformation to modernize public institutions and deliver measurable public value.

With over 15 years of experience in the industry, Andres began his career in Estonia as a digital government expert. Since then, he has been responsible for many high-impact large-scale government transformation programs and reforms globally.

He is a regular author and co-author of white papers and other thought leadership on digitalization to make governments digital and deliver better services to its citizens.