

Tom Dibble-Burge – Co-founder & CCO – The Dot Collective

I am an experienced commercial leader, with a career so far spanning investment banking, enterprise software solutions and consultancy services. I have represented global product teams for Fortune 500 Enterprises, led EMEA sales capabilities with £50m+ revenue streams and formed part of executive leadership teams at leading UK technology businesses on fast growth trajectories.

I am passionate about the diversity of thought and a firm believer that a true success is derived from a combination of both our achievements and perceived failures. I am humbled to be part of an incredible group with a shared a vision to create a business where people's backgrounds, quirkiness and stories are celebrated, true talent is fairly rewarded and access to opportunities is equitable.

As CCO and co-founder of The Dot Collective, I focus primarily on the commercial aspects of our fast-growing business covering finance, sales, marketing, client engagement, core operations and business enablement. Alongside my co-founder Svetlana, we take huge pride in our positions of leading a true next generation consultancy – put simply: we dare to be different.